“I’m graduated as a Set Design and Costume from the Academy of Fine Arts of Naples and I began my career in 1992 within the Prada Group, where I worked for a dozen years alternatively on Prada and Miu Miu shoes collections. After two raids at Romeo Gigli and Dolce & Gabbana, I’m going back to work for both men’s and women’s Prada shoes collections.

My long experience as a designer in the field of luxury accessories has subsequently led me to being appointed Head Designer Shoes Man & Woman for Jil Sander under the creative direction of Raf Simons and Creative Director Women’s Shoes for Giorgio Armani.

Since 2012 I worked as a shoes design consultant for Vionnet, Tod’s, Furla and Marni.

A great experience was the creative director role I’ve had in “Pollini” from 2014 to 2017.

The last experiences were the collaborations at Paula Cademartori and Emilio Pucci shoes collections.”

Thanks so much for your kind attention and I hope here soon your news

Best Regards

Erminio Cerbone
